Living a double life in a new environment presents many problems. Undercover work is one of the most stressful jobs a special agent can undertake. The largest cause of stress identified is the separation of an agent from friends, family and his normal environment. This simple isolation can lead to depression and anxiety. There is no data on the divorce rates of agents, but strain on relationships does occur. This can be a result of a need for secrecy and an inability to share work problems, and the unpredictable work schedule, personality and lifestyle changes and the length of separation — Undercover Agents Lyrics: And I said, “Park your car and come on up to my house / We'll plan a revolution” / And I said, “Yeah, I think I'm ready to begin / We'll destroy the disillusion” / I am currently. I was seeking another life And the moon was so bright. [Verse 2] It's only in our heads It's only in our heads. I'm so done with the pressure Twist and control everyone's perception I'm done with the weather Trapped in the mist, I can't see the truth. Undercover Agents™ is the track 8 from Enter Shikari™s fifth studio album The Spark. What have the artists said about the song? Enter Shikari™s vocalist Rou Reynolds talked with Kerrang! about the track: It’s mainly about perception management. Kids are growing up not thinking they control how everyone perceives them. Commit a serious federal crime in their presence. It might not immediately answer the question, but likely to get you on the path to finding out. Of course, you might also discover they are just a regular honest person who reports your crime to ac... What is most common profession done by secret agents/spies in order to disguise? How can you know if someone is working for the police or is an undercover agent? So why were the undercover FBI agents unable to attend meetings or jobs scheduled for late on Friday afternoons? It's not a very pretty answer, or something you would want many people to know about, but the truth was that if a meeting or a job were held late on a Friday afternoon it would cut into their weekend.
