inhabitant of ancient Rome. Drawing on developments in the social sciences, as well as ancient evidence, the authors focus on the period c.200BC - AD200, looking at childhood, the transition to adulthood, maturity, and old age. They explore how both the individual and society were involved in, and reacted to, these different stages, in terms of gender, wealth and status, and personal choice and empowerment. Excerpt.Â Its intention is to focus on age and the life course in antiquity and to open these subjects up to scrutiny. It is not a book about daily life, nor is it a book about the Roman family, though both are central to the thesis. The origins of the book lie in the teaching in Reading of an undergraduate courseâ€”the Roman Life Cycle, received enthusiastically in 1996-7 and again in 1998-9.
