The Harriet Tubman Residence, Harriet Tubman Home for the Elderly and the AME Zion Church are National Historic Landmarks. In 1858 New York Senator William Seaward made Harriet Tubman a proposition. He would sell her his property in Auburn, NY for a reasonable price and flexible terms. Auburn had a strong abolitionist group and Seaward [â€¦] Harriet Tubman was able to not only escape from the slavery of the South, but she went above and beyond what anyone else had done by heading back over the border multiple times over to help others escape. A Picture Book of Harriet Tubman is exactly what the name implies. It is a picture book that helps to explain the contributions that Harriet Tubman made to the ending of slavery through what she named the Underground Railroad. If you are a history buff and know all about what she did, then take one of our quizzes on history and this book to test what you know.
