Bridging the Cross-Culture Gap was written to improve global listening skills and overall fluency in spoken English while helping students to see the pragmatic elements of what they hear and say. The book's multitude of tasks are designed to increase cultural awareness as well as develop the language skills. This book assumes that learners have already had explicit instruction in the mechanics of listening and speaking in English. Each task is identified as having been designed for individual, pair work, small group, large group, or speech. However, tasks are easily adapted or modified. "Cross-Cultural Dialogue" is a story about individuals from two different cultures trying to understand one another and having a difficult time of it. Originally titled "My Side vs. Their Side," the story provides observations first from the author's point of view and then from what she imagines to be her students' point of view. Her determination to understand the local culture and to bridge the cultural divide that separated her from her students is clearly evident in "Cross-Cultural Dialogue." Suggest to students that they imagine they are Peace Corps Volunteers assigned to teach English to preteens and teenagers in a remote and impoverished part of the world.
