Authors often make the mistake of thinking that people visit their websites just to read their bio. Are you, the author, important? Sure, but your book's more important. Let people know they're on an author's website by making your product the star of the show, as David Sedaris does. A minimalist setup makes it impossible not to notice the main event: David's new book. Also important: the buttons below "Pre-order now" that steer folks to your retailers.
