The Legal Aid, Sentencing and Punishment of Offenders Act 2012 (LASPO) is a statute of the Parliament of the United Kingdom, creating reforms to the justice system. The bill for the act was introduced in the House of Commons on 21 June 2011, and received Royal Assent on 1 May 2012. Among other measures, the act: gives courts greater discretion to issue conditional discharges for young persons pleading guilty to a first offence. Others would stay with the Army through the harvest, but sneak off in the middle of the night once the weather got cold. Meanwhile, the people who supported the revolutionaries when the revolution was going well -- but not otherwise -- were called "sunshine patriots". So in the famous passage from "The Crisis" where Thomas Paine wrote: The summer soldier and the sunshine patriot will, in this crisis, shrink from the service of their country. he was talking -- quite literally in the former case -- about the fair-weather friends of the Revolution.
