Job satisfaction is a big factor in employee engagement, and the level of discretionary effort team members are likely to make. No doubt, people's work performance suffers when they don't feel satisfied with their jobs, not to mention their quality of life. Of course, every person is unique in what they wish to achieve from their work, but there are some job satisfaction factors that psychologists usually agree on. Employees often see pay as a reflection of how management views their contribution to the organization. Fringe benefits are also significant, but they are not as influential. One reason undoubtedly is that most employees do not even know how much they are receiving in benefits. It will lead to their satisfaction in the office. Feedback.
