We in Europe have suffered so many more atrocities committed BY Muslims against us, whom they term the "infidel" for the crime of not following their "religion". France has suffered most. Moreover, what the above image presents is a rather heterogeneous collection of right-wing, generally "traditional", anti-immigration parties. Hard-Right politics are on the rise in Europe, not Fascism. While it is true that the Far-Right parties that have become increasingly popular and influent over the pas few years in Europe do differ from most other mainstream political parties on a number of points (most often linked to immigration, security and religion), it doesn't make them Fascist parties. Fascism was not strong enough to bring the Church under the control of the state.

FOREIGN POLICY He wanted to expand Italys power around the Mediterranean Sea and invaded Abyssinia and re-create the glories of the Roman Empire. I want to make Italy great, respected and feared. He gained initial success when he refused to return Corfu to Greece and received 50 million compensation for the death of Italian soldiers on the Greek border. Despite being a peace maker in the 1920s (Kellogg-Briand Pact, which outlawed war). Mussolini invaded Abyssinia because he wanted to expand his empire. Despite initial
