Type B is a behavior pattern that is lacking in Type A behaviors. A-B personality is a continuum where one either leans to be more Type A or Non Type A (Type B). [18]. The hypothesis describes Type B individuals as a contrast to those of Type A. Type B personality, by definition, are noted to live at lower stress levels. It has been statistically proven that behavior therapy can significantly reduce the likelihood of cancer or coronary heart disease mortality. On the contrary, psychoanalysis can increase the likelihood of cancer and coronary heart disease mortality drastically. [37] Studies suggest that both body and mental disease arise from each other. Mental disorders arise from physical causes, and likewise, physical disorders arise from mental causes. Traits of Type A Behavior. While the term “Type A” is thrown around often, it’s not always fully known what specific characteristics make up Type A personality, even among experts. For some people, the term applies to rude and impatient people. Others see workaholics as Type A. Many see competitiveness as the main characteristic.

Heart Disease: There is some ambiguity, but some research shows that there is a causal relationship between TABP and coronary heart disease. However, recent analysis has failed to confirm this. Changing your Type A traits doesn’t necessarily imply that your existing personality is not a good one. If you’re looking to soften a few of your Type A traits, it may just mean you’re looking to reduce stress and enjoy your journey more. You can still achieve your goals.
