As all the novels Hemingway published in his life, The Old Man and the Sea typically reflects his unique writing style. The language is simple and natural on the surface, but actually deliberate and artificial. Hemingways style is related to his experience as a journalist. It is a simple story about a fisherman Santiago and his battle with a great marlin. For 84 days Santiago does not catch a single fish but he does not feel discouraged. He goes far out into the sea and hooks a giant marlin. This commentary was edited and re-edited after its author was dead, and most of the manuscripts in which it has been preserved give us not the original edition of Victorinus, but one or other of these posthumous recensions It was believed for long that the original work of Victorinus was quite lost. Thus H. A. Wilson, writing in 1887 in the Dictionary of Christian Biography, Vol. The credit for establishing and editing the text of the original commentary must go to Dr. J. Haussleiter, whose Victorini episcopi Petauionensis opera appeared in 1916 as the forty-ninth, volume of the Vienna Corpus Scriptorum Ecclesiasticorum Latinorum. Haussleiter distinguishes three later recensions of the work. A comparison of the two series persuades me that Victorinus was on the right lines here.
